Damien House: Alternative to 'Self-Destruction'?

By DON GRIERSON

Members of a committee formed to establish a "Damien House" drop-in center in the North County Monday appealed for financial support and "in kind" donations to launch the program.

Rudie Tretten, assistant principal at Jefferson High School and chairman of the Citizens Committee for Project Damien House for North San Mateo County, and staff workers from the San Mateo Damien House described an urgent need for such a facility in this area at a press conference at Westmoor High School.

According to Tretten, San Mateo Damien House resident David Maze, psychiatrist Dr. David J. Schwartz and other spokesmen, there is a growing urgency in the area for establishment of "an alternative to the ritual self-destruction of drug use" among teen-agers, and "Damien House at this point represents one of the few alternatives which young people are willing to accept."

"We have found ourselves confronting an increasing drug problem, and the schools are not really very effective in dealing with it," Tretten said.

Walt Gloistein, assistant principal at Westmoor and another member of the committee, also joined in the appeal.

"We hear a lot about alienation but it doesn't come home until you see some of these kids who have dropped reds or rainbows or whatever," Gloistein said.

According to the committee spokesmen, the role of Damien House in combating drug abuse "is one of opening communication channels between the young people and the adult world of parents and school."

"In pursuit of reconciling the young with the world around them, the residents at Damien House strive to bring parents and children together so that communication can begin again."

"Damien House in no way serves to supplant either parents or schools," Maze said. "We work at creating the trust and understanding necessary for communication."

In live with this policy, Damien House prohibits the "carrying or being under the influence of drugs or alcohol, sexual acts and physical violence or threat of violence" on the premises.

Dr. Schwartz, who is a member of the Damien House board of directors and serves as a professional consultant for the non-profit corporation, said the program is not restricted to teen-agers with drug problems "or even to teen-agers."

"We are people oriented," he said. "Our doors are open 24 hours a day to anyone willing to abide by the house rules."

"Damien House fills a need in the community, and no other program fills this specific need."

The San Mateo facility, which was established nine months ago, has served youths referred from such agencies as the Hillcrest Juvenile Hall, Peninsula Suicide Prevention, Inc., and community churches.

There have also been numerous "self referrals from the streets."

"Much of our work has been with runaways and drug users," Dr. Schwartz said.

The formal operation of Damien House is divided into three phases, the "drop-in" center, group encounter sessions and counseling, with the drop-in center the "most valuable facit."

"Such a meeting center provides a contunual setting for constructive human exchange in a drug-free atmosphere," the spokesmen said.

Through the group encounter program, "individuals receive honest feedback about themselves and are able to observe and express realistic feeling."

"Through group sharing, individuals are able to function more effectively away from the group during everyday occurences," according to the Damien House spokesmen.

The most frequent counseling programs are carried out with family groups in attempts to re-establish communication.

Though applications for federal, county and state funds have been filed, the organization has received "a lot of promises, but no money," Dr. Schwartz said, and depends entirely upon donations.

S.S.F. COUNCIL

Deny Permit For Market

South San Francisco councilmen voted unanimously after a three-hour hearing Monday to uphold a planning commission decision denying a use permit for a service station and market at the corner of Westborough Boulevard and Callan Drive.

Council action followed an extensive debate between representatives of Caesar-Callan Homes, Inc., the applicant, and City Planner Daniel Pass on the wording of a city ordinance applying to the site.

According to Pass, the ordinance prohibits approval of a commercial development on the site unless "the uses are planned and guaged primarily for service and convenience to the residents or people working in the planned community."

At the April 28 meeting of the planning commission, when the use permit application was denied, he advised commissioners not to approve a permit unless the proposed uses "would provide such local services and facilities which are not available in a reasonably proximate location or needed and desirable as supplements to existing local service and shopping facilities."

Pass argued that the existence of three other service stations already constructed in Westborough and approval granted for a fourth preclude any need for another.

He said the market proposed for the site would also be excessive, "since there is presently and plans have been approved for two others."

"In reality, Westborough's 4,500 residents could be adequately served by one supermar-

Firemen Get Three Off Area Cliffs

An eight-year-old boy and his 24-year-old would-be rescuer were saved from a perch half way up a 70-foot shale embankment on Bellevue, near Peoria, Daly City, Sunday. In another weekend incident, a youth fell 50-feet down Devil's Slide Saturday but escaped with minor injuries. Daly City and Pacifica fire rescue teams, respectively, pulled them to safety.

Rescued unhurt were Lester Procter, 8, of 133 San Diego Avenue, Daly City, and Donald M. Watts, 24, of 121-A Fair Oaks, San Francisco, Daly City firemen said.

Young Procter scaled the shale cliff at about 3 p.m., after a group of youngsters began chasing him. Once up, he was unable to get down.

Firemen said Watts, a passerby, took off his shoes in an attempt to gain better footing in the loose shale. He was able to reach Procter, but similarly was unable to move either up or down. The two were about 35 feet up the cliff.

The fire department was called and Station 2 firemen Pat Cunneen and Felix Valdez went to the top of the embankment, behind an apartment building, and lowered a rope. Watt se-

JUDGE PAUL HUPF . . . He's Resigning

Judge Paul Hupf Quits the Bench

Former City Attorney of Daly City Will Return to Private Practice Of Law Effective on June 30

By FRANK LAPIERRE

Municipal Judge Paul Hupf, who only last year was elected to his first full term on the North County Court bench, on Monday resigned his post effective June 30. In a letter to County Clerk Marvin Church, Hupf explained the reason for his sudden move was "in order that I may return to the (private) practice of law."

A similar letter went out to Governor Reagan's office, it was learned.

Hupf, a long-time Republican, was appointed to the newly established municipal judgeship post in 1966 by former Democratic Gov. Edmund Brown, purportedly for his campaign work on behalf of Brown.

"I am very pleased and grateful the governor appointed me to this post and I will do my very best in this new capacity," Hupf said shortly after the appointment.

His term of office expired in December, 1968, and he was elected to his present six-year term.

The resignation brings to an end — at least temporarily — more than 13 years of public service to the county, starting with his election to the city council in April, 1956.

Hupf served in that capacity under the late Joe Verducci, until 1957 when he accepted an appointment as city attorney of Daly City.

During his nine years as city attorney, Hupf continued his private law practice with Bernard Etcheverry.

For some six months, in 1957, Hupf filled in as city manager, in addition to his legal duties.

Hupf has also been active in lay affairs of the Catholic church and countywide civic affairs.

Last year he received the St Thomas More Award — the highest award given by the Catholic church, for contributions made to the betterment of the church. This week Hupf was elected chairman of the Board of Trustees at Dominican College in San Rafael.

This is the first time a lay board has been formed at the college during its 110 years of existence.

Hupf said he had given his resignation "considerable thought" for the past three months and the decision "did not come easily."

In recent weeks, Hupf had been strongly considered for elevation to the Superior Court bench, replacing retiring Judge Wayne Millington.

Westborough: New Element Introduced

Action on the proposed city-county agreement for construction of the Westborough Boulevard Extension in South San Francisco was postponed again Monday after Mayor Frank Bertucelli introduced a "significant new element" into the negotiations.

According to Bertucelli, an unidentified developer is planning a $100 million residential development on the California Golf Club property which adjoins the expressway right-of-way.

"I have information that work is scheduled to begin on this project within a very short time," the mayor said, "and if this is correct, the city might save thousands of dollars by delaying the project and requiring the developer to participate in the road financing."

Subdivision developers in the city are required to bear a large share of the cost for roads built over their property, the mayor noted, and though Westborough does not pass through the golf club property, the right-ofway runs along one boundary.

"I feel this potential developer should be required to make a significant contribution toward the road project," the mayor said.

County officials had asked that the city approve the road agreement this week in order to begin work in time to complete the project before the next winter rains.

But city officials have been

Pepperdine Honor For D.C. Man

Frank Spadarella, prominent Daly City businessman, received Pepperdine College's sixth annual Award in Corrections during a convention of the California Probation, Parole and Correctional Association on May 28 in Monterey.

Spadarella, owner of a chain of restaurants, received the award at a banquet in the Del Monte Hyatt House beginning at 6:30 p.m.

Pepperdine College is an independent, liberal arts Christian college with a student enrollment of 1,700 at its present campus in the heart of Los Angeles. The 32-year-old school has announced a gift of 138 acres of ocean-view land in Malibu for the construction of a second campus.

Expected to be open for classes in 1971, the new campus will offer expanded services with more than 60 areas of study for B.S. and B.A. degrees and 12 fields for the M.A. degree. Just this week, Pepperdine announced the affiliation with it of the Orange College of Law at Santa Ana as another facet in the development of its multi-campus program.

Spadarella was cited for his volunteer work with the San Mateo County Juvenile Probation Department and specifically "in helping youngsters secure employment, helping them adjust in the community in establishing better relationships between the young people and the police, and in communicating the needs of the youth both to the community and to probation authorities."

Spadarella has been, since 1949, a partner in Toto's Restaurant, Inc. He had a varied career prior to going into the restaurant business.

From 1942-46, Spaderella worked in the Information Office in Washington, D. C., for the U. S. Department of Agriculture, starting out as a clerk-typist and advancing to the post of supervisor for the duplicating section.

Later he worked as an ac-

'Find Money' for Special Education, S.S.F. School Administrators Told

Trustees of the South San Francisco Unified School District have instructed Supt. Paul Nielsen and the district staff to "take another look at the budget" and find money to expand the special education programs."

The board agreed to seek means to expand the district programs for educationally handicapped and educable mentally retarded children after an "ad hoc" committee of parents headed by Mrs. Gerald Higgins, 701 Hillside Boulevard, presented figures indicating the present programs "are not meeting district needs."

According to Dr. Robert Craig, who appeared in behalf of parents of the district's handicapped and retarded children at this week's board meeting, trustees agreed to expand the existing program to include 65 children now on waiting lists for admission.

The board ordered the district administration to "come up with a recommendation for cutting back on other override items in the budget, rather than going to the general fund," Dr. Craig said.

Members of the parents' group organized a protest campaign several weeks ago after noting that the district's preliminary budget called for a reduction in the E. H. and E. M. R. programs next year "even though the present programs are not meeting our needs."

The parents urged expansion of the programs "to the full two per cent of the district's student population allowed by state law" rather than a cut or maintenance of the "status quo."

According to Mrs. Higgins and other members of the group, the South San Francisco district is utilizing only about one-third of the available state aid for the programs.

The state contributes $1,511 per student in the E. H. program, and the district contrib-

D.C. Does Not Favor WBRT Bus Proposal

The Daly City Council Monday came out unanimously against West Bay Rapid Transit's Plan "D" which calls for implementation of a mass countywide busing system instead of a combined busing-fixed rail network.

Two months ago Mayor Bernard Lycett instructed Councilman Michael De Bernardi, a director on the WBRTA board, to vote against the proposed bus plan.

County voters will be asked to vote their approval or disapproval of the plan on June 10.

The vote is soley for support of the proposed bus system and does not include approval of funding for the system.

S. Bruno Okehs Addition Of Teen Rec 'Advisors'

San Bruno city council last Monday authorized the inclusion of two "under 21" members on the recreation commission in strictly an advisory capacity, and moved to expand the teen-age program at Rollingwood clubhouse through the summer months, with the city providing supervision four hours daily.

Two teen-agers will be named to the commission in strictly advisory capacities, it was pointed out.

A list of three prospective members each will be obtained from Capuchino and Crestmoor high schools, it was decided.

The teen club has been using the Rollingwood facility in recent weeks and the recreation department wants to expand the program through the summer months, with the city providing supervision four hours daily.

On the motion of City Councilman George Corey, who is the council representative to the recreation commission, the council authorized the supervised program — provided the Rollingwood Homeowners' Association will agree to make its clubhouse available.

"The cost of the Daly City operation should be slightly less," Tretten said, "though there will be a considerable initial outlay."

The committee members are seeking a large four or five-bedroom house, "rent free, if possible," to house the Daly City operation.

They are also seeking donations of cash, professional services, a car, food, furniture, office supplies, stereo and tape recording equipment and duplicating equipment.

utes $966. State support for E. M. R. students is $600, with the district contributing $1,400.

Advocates of the special programs' expansion have stated they do not want an increase in district taxes to finance the move, but would like to see "some of the frills removed from the district."

Among the "non-essential" programs they have recommended for a cutback are some aspects of the adult education school.

"We feel adults interested in taking a ceramics class can drive over the hill to the new junior college," Mrs. Higgins said.

The district administration is expected to present recommendations for financing the proposed expansion at the next regular board meeting.

reluctant to enter into the agreement from the beginning, and now point out that the city's share of the project cost has increased by $500,000 since the original agreement was proposed.

The council is attempting to obtain additional state funds to defray the city contribution to the project, which will cost from $3.6 to $4 million, according to latest estimates.

A proposal to assess property owners along a portion of the right-of-way for part of the cost is also being considered by city officials.

City Planner Argues Issue

ket and two service stations," Pass said.

Thomas Callan and other spokesmen for the applicants disagreed with the planner's assessment of the community's needs, and said market surveys conducted 6 Texaco and the 7-11 Market Company, proposed users of the site, indicated there is a "present and future need for the facilities."

They also argued that the Zoning ordinance applicable to the site allowed approval of the use permit provided future need could be demonstrated.

The planner, according to the applicants, neglected to mention this point and misquoted the ordinance in his memorandum on the matter to the planning commission.

"Both Texaco and 7-11 Stores feel the need is now and are willing to back up their feeling by investing thousands of dollars now to fill the need."

"The South San Francisco Coporation is planning to consrtuct at least 250 houses in West Park Three and 150 houses in West Park One and Two this year," the applicants said.

"It is the general practice for service stations and quick-stop stores to construct their buildings and hope for business before large residential developments are constructed in order to become established and welcome the future residents as they move into the area. The area will grow rapidly and the need will grow rapidly."

The applicants and the planner also disagreed over the attitudes of adjacent property owners toward the proposed decelopment.

Callan spokesmen indicated both the Westborough Homeowners Association and the South San Francisco Unified School District had stated they had no objections to the development.

However, David Fridenberg, representing the homeowners, said it would be "stretching a point" to say members of his organization approved of the service station development.

The homeowners did voice approval of commercial development of the site when it was first proposed in 1966, however.

Friedenberg stated he felt the council had a "legal obligation" to deny the service station use permit.

Stanley Haney, an engineer for the school district, stated at the planning commission meeting in April that school officials were unaware of plans for a service station at the site prior to purchase of an adjacent site for an intermediate school.

However, Callan said plans submitted to the district in 1966 indicated the service station use. —By Don Grierson.

cured it around the boy, who was pulled up first.

An "incredibly lucky young man" was almost "finished" Saturday when he fell over a cliff at Devil's Slide while attempting to retrieve a photo, Pacifica firemen reported.

Lloyd Carlson, 23, fell 50 feet down a sheer cliff near Saddle Rock about 1 p.m. but managed to stop his descent in loose shale and avoid plunging several hundred yards to the beach below.

He escaped with only minor injuries.

Firemen said Carlson was sitting in his parked car with his wife, Dianne, when the photograph blew out the car window and over the edge of the cliff.

In his haste to retrieve the picture Carlson lost his footing in loose rock at the edge of the road.

Fire Captain Ken Donohue, using the department's power winch, rescued Carlson about one hour after the mishap occured.

D.C. Student Scholars Win Top Honors

Eight Daly City scholars were honored last week at the eleventh annual Daly City-Colma Chamber of Commerce student awards night that brought together business leaders, parents, students and educators of the community for a tribute hailed as the chambers "finest hour."

Parents of the Westmoor and Jefferson High School students were recognized as well at the affair, which was initiated over 80 youngsters ago through the efforts of Elio Fontana, longtime school board member and now the president of the chamber, and Vince Murphy, the city's postmaster and an active chamber participant.

Honored were:

Jefferson — Gail Harada, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Masaichi Harada of Route 1, Box 115, Colma; Debbie Lee, daughter of Johnson Lee, 101 Alexander Avenue, Daly City; Sharon Semisch, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Semisch, 2320 Elliott Street, San Mateo; Miriam Cadelinia, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Cadelinia, 1130 Brunswick Street, Daly City.

GARAGE GUTTED

Gasoline Flares, Pacifican Injured

A Pacifica man was injured Saturday morning when gasoline fumes from a pickup truck in his garage were ignited by a battery spark.

William Healy, 1282 Alicante, was treated at Mary's Help Hospital for second degree burns on his hands and arms after the mishap occured about 10 a.m.

Firemen said Healy smelled gasoline fumes in his garage upon awaking Saturday morning, and went out to investigate.

He noticed fuel dripping from the truck, and was attempting to stop the leak when the fumes ignited.

Healy ran back into the house and led is wife and children outside while neighbors telephoned the fire department.

Firemen said he was pushing the truck out of the garage when they arrived.

The garage was gutted by the fire, and smoke damage was extensive throughout the house, according to fire department spokesmen.

The truck was not seriously damaged.

Pair Nabbed In Burglary

One of two Daly City youths arrested May 27 and charged with the burglary of a Westlake region home had in his possession 286 seconal tablets, according to police spokesmen.

Edward Cooley, 18, and a 15-year-old youth were taken into custody and were charged with the burglary last week of the Jack Mihalovich residence at 73 Westpark.

Cooley was charged, additionally, with possession of and selling of dangerous drugs, police said.

Hi-fi equipment reported by Mihalovich to have been taken in the burglary was recovered. It was valued at $820, police said.

Fire Proves Hard to Find In South S.F.

Mr. and Mrs. Victor Macia of 2901 Burren Way, South San Francisco, kept smelling the smoke, but couldn't locate the fire.

They called firemen Thursday, anyway, and shortly before firemen arrived at the Westborough region home, the Macias found the blaze.

Apparently the sunlight had reflected off a decorative bottle, filled with colored water, displayed in the living room window. It touched off a fire in the drapes, which had been closed.

Macia extinguished the fire shortly before firemen arrived.

Tantalizing Aroma of Hamburger Is Promise of Eating Enjoyment

The tantalizing aroma of hamburgers grilling over hot coals or wafting from the range is a promise of eating enjoyment. Fulfill that promise with these burger ideas brightened with unique, appetite appealing California ripe olives.

Ripe olives make for extra hearty hamburgers for a family snack or teen get-together when the meaty textured ripe olive are combined with ground beef. A liberal sprinkling of Parmesan cheese on the burgers sharpens the earthy flavor of ripe olives.

If you prefer, make your favorite ground beef mixture in the form of a burger or meatloaf, then give it a decidedly distinct flavor with the nutty goodness of California ripe olives in a zippy tomato sauce. The sauce can be made in advance and packed in a container to tote on an outing.

Impart the unusual flavor experience of ripe olives to that teen-age favorite, "sloppy joes". Easy to assemble, the dish tastes almost like hamburgers with all the fixings but is easier to serve. Ripe olives help to stretch the meat to satisfy young appetites.

Whether munched as is or used as an ingredient, ripe olives are one of the most sought after cookout items. Their dark handsome appearance, nut-like flavor and versatile compatibility with other foods are convincing reasons why they are inevitable staples on any outdoor menu.

RIPE OLIVE PARTY BURGERS

½ hard rolls
¼ cup butter
1 teaspoon dry mustard
1½ cups canned pitted California ripe olives
1 pound ground beef chuck
1 tablespoon instant minced onion
½ teaspoon salt
Dash pepper
¼ teaspoon allspice
¼ cup grated Parmesan cheese
Lettuce
Tomatoes
Dill pickle

Preheat broiler. Cut rolls into halves. Mix butter and dry mustard. Spread on 4 halves of rolls. Coarsely chop ¾ cup ripe olives. Mix chopped olives with beef, onion, salt, pepper and allspice. Divide meat mixture into 4 equal parts; shape each a little larger than roll halves. Place foil on broiler rack, and put hamburgers about 3 inches from heat. Broil 7 to 10 minutes on one side. Place each meat patty, broiled side down, on a buttered roll half. Sprinkle patties with cheese. Return to broiler and broil about 5 minutes longer or until meat is cooked as desired. Place lettuce, sliced tomatoes, sliced pickle and remaining whole olives on other roll halves. Makes 4 servings.

RIPE OLIVE-TOMATO SAUCE

1 cup canned pitted California ripe olives
1 (1-pound) can tomatoes
1 tablespoon instant minced onion
2 tablespoons chopped parsley
1 tablespoon vinegar
1 tablespoon sugar
½ teaspoon basil
¼ teaspoon thyme
½ teaspoon garlic salt
1 tablespoon cornstarch
1 tablespoon water

Cut ripe olives into wedges. Mix olives with remaining ingredients except cornstarch and water. Heat to boiling; reduce heat and simmer 15 minutes. Mix cornstarch with water and stir into ripe olive mixture. Cook, stirring constantly until thickened. Serve hot or cold with meats. Makes 2 cups sauce.

RIPE OLIVE SLOPPY JOES

1 cup canned pitted California ripe olives, cut into pieces
1 pound ground beef chuck
1 tablespoon oil
¼ cup chopped onion
2 tablespoons chopped green pepper
1 cup (8-ounce can) tomato sauce
1¼ teaspoons salt
Hamburger buns

Try Curried Lamb For Economy

An economical cut of meat works well in this recipe.

Curried Lamb Served with Rice, Peach Chutney, Salted Peanuts
Zucchini Salad Bowl
Frosted Cake Beverage

CURRIED LAMB

2¼ pounds (about) lamb neck slices
1 teaspoon paprika
Curry powder
1 tablespoon fat
1 medium onion, diced (½ cup)
1 large clove garlic, minced
1 can (10 ounces) condensed chicken broth, undiluted
2 tablespoons instant flour
¼ cup cold water
Salt to taste

Remove any fat from outside of lamb neck slices; dip them in the paprika mixed with 1 tablespoon curry powder. Heat the fat in a 10-inch skillet; add lamb and brown thoroughly. Add the onion, garlic and chicken broth; cover tightly and simmer until lamb is tender — 1½ to 2 hours. Refrigerate lamb pieces and juices separately overnight; remove lamb from bones and hardened fat from top of broth. There should be 1¼ cups broth; if there is not, add water to make this amount. Mix flour and cold water and add to broth; cook over moderately low heat, stirring constantly, until thickened; whisk in extra curry powder to suit your own taste, and salt. Add lamb and reheat. Makes 3 servings.

BEEBE SAUCE

¼ cup butter
2 tablespoons tarragon vinegar
2 tablespoons strained lemon juice
2 tablespoons Worcestershire sauce
Salt and pepper if needed

Into a small skillet turn all the ingredients. Over low heat, stir until butter mealts. Pour over broiled fish. If the fish has not been salted and peppered, add a good pinch of salt and pepper to the sauce. Makes enough sauce for 4 servings of fish.

Summer's Coming—Sing a Song of Casseroles—a Pocket Full of Beans

A pocket in a thick, tender pork chop, makes for a delicious entree for a summer meal. The chops are stuffed with barbecue beans, and they smell scrumptious while broiling over your outdoor barbecue. To give family or guests a choice of main course, you can add a pan of baked banana beans to the picnic table — or clink a stein over a steaming platter of kidney kraut.

Other lands — other flavor ideas! From the sunny shores of Baja California we steal the inspiration for Cheddary Chili — and from New Delhi, a new dilly of a dish — garbanzo beans in a simmery, shimmery sauce with a mysterious flavor of the Far East.

KIDNEY KRAUT

2 strips of bacon, diced
¼ cup onion, chopped
1 14-oz. can (approx. 1¾ cups) Sauerkraut
2 15½-oz. cans (approx. 3½ cups) Dark Red Kidney Beans, drained and rinsed in cold water
1 12-oz. can of beer
1 tsp. of caraway seeds (more, if desired)

Saute bacon in large saucepan until lightly browned. Add onions and cook until they are transparent. Add sauerkraut and beans. Pour beer over all and let simmer until heated through and all flavors are well blended. Sprinkle with caraway seeds, and serve piping hot. Serves approximately 4-6.

Variations: Top mixture with hot dogs or pieces of pork tenderloin. Cover and simmer until meat is done.

OVEN BAKED BANANA BEANS

4 small bananas (unpeeled) eeled)
8 pork link sausages
2 16-oz. cans (approx. 4 cups) New England Style Oven Baked Beans

Split bananas lengthwise from tip to tip taking care not to cut through underside of skin. Slip two sausages into pocket of bananas and arrange in baking dish, slit side up. Bake at 375 degrees for 15-20 minutes or until sausages are done. Heat beans and pour into casserole. Peel bananas and arrange attractively on top of beans. Serve piping hot. Serves approximately 4-6.

CHEDDARY CHILI

1 15½-oz. can (approx. 1¾ cups) Chili Beans
2 cups cheddar cheese, grated
¼ cup peeled green chili peppers, chopped
½ cup onions, chopped

Mix all ingredients together in 2-quart saucepan and simmer until thoroughly heated and cheese melts. Serve over rice. Serves approximately 3-4.

NEW DELHI BEANS

¼ cup butter
2 onions, chopped
1 16-oz. can (approximately 2 cups) Whole Peeled Tomatoes
2 15½-oz. cans (approximately 3½ cups) Garbanzo Beans, drained and rinsed in cold water
½ can of beef bouillon
1½ tsp. turmeric
½ tsp. ginger
¼ tsp. dried mint leaves
Dash of cayenne

Melt butter in large saucepan. Add onions and cook until transparent. Add tomatoes, garbanzos, bouillon, turmeric, ginger, mint and cayenne. Cover and simmer until thoroughly heated. Serve piping hot. Serves approximately 6-8.

POCKET FULL

6 double thickness pork chops, have butcher slit them to make pocket
1 15½-oz. can Barbecue Beans
½ cup Chili Sauce
Salt and pepper, to taste

Spoon barbecue beans into pocket of pork chops. Fasten with tooth picks. Spread chili sauce over both sides of chops. Salt and pepper, to taste. Grill, broil or saute chops until thoroughly cooked. Heat any remaining beans and serve over chops. Serves approximately 6.

Fig Bars That Will Keep Well

These bar cookies keep well.
Apple Wedges and Orange Sections
Fig Bars Milk

FIG BARS

1-3 cup shortening
¼ cup sugar
¼ teaspoon baking soda
1 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon cinnamon
1-3 cup dark molasses
1-3 cup honey
1 large egg
1¼ cups unsifted flour, stir to aerate before measuring
1 cup finely cut soft dried figs
½ cup chopped (medium fine) walnuts

Grease and flout a square cake pan (9 by 9 by 2 inches). Cream shortening, sugar, baking soda, salt and cinnamon; beat in molasses and honey, then egg. Gradually and gently beat in flour; stir in figs and walnuts. Turn into prepared pan. Bake in a pre-heated 350-degree oven until a cake tester inserted in center comes out free of batter — 30 minutes. Place on a wire rack; with a small spatula loosen edges; cool; cut into bars; remove with spatula. Wrap tightly in plastic film, then store in tightly covered tin box.

Chocolate Crisps In New Version

A new version of a delicious chocolate cookie: Shoulder Lamb Chops, Potatoes, Carrots and Peas, Salad, Fruit Bowl New Chocolate Crisps.

NEW CHOCOLATE CRISPS

⅛ pound (⅛ stick) butter, at room temperature
½ cup sugar
1 large egg
1 envelope no-melt chocolate
¼ cup unsifted flour, stir to aerate before measuring
1-16 teaspoon salt
¼ cup finely chopped pecans

Butter bottoms of 2 square cake pans (each 8 by 8 by 2 inches). In a small mixing bowl cream butter and sugar; thoroughly beat in egg, then chocolate. Add flour and salt; beat gently to blend. Spread evenly and thinly in prepared pans; sprinkle with pecans. Bake in a preheated 400-degree over until ifrm — about 12 minutes. Place pans on wire racks — in a minute or two (before cookies crisp), cut into 2-inch squares; cool completely. Remove with a small spatula; store in tightly covered tin container. Makes 32.

Tasty Big Western Omelet Easy

The ingredients are standard, but the cooking method is new: Big Western Omelet Potato Sticks, Salad Bowl, Buttered Toast, Chocolate Peppermint Cookies.

BIG WESTERN OMELET

6 large eggs
¼ teaspoon salt
1-16 teaspoon white pepper
3 tablespoons butter
2 medium onions, peeled and cut into thin strips (1½ cups)
1 small green pepper, seeded and cut into thin strips (about ¾ cup)
¾ cup diced cooked ham
Chili sauce

In a medium mixing bowl beat together the eggs, salt and pepper just until yolks and whites are combined. In a 10-inch skillet melt 2 tablespoons of the butter; add onion, green pepper and ham; cook gently until vegetables are wilted; add to egg mixture scraping out pan with a rubber spatula. In the clean skillet over moderately low heat, heat the remaining 1 tablespoon butter; add egg mixture, spreading solids evenly. Cover tightly and cook until bottom is browned and top is set — about 15 minutes. Cut in wedges and remove with a wide spatula. Serve with chili sauce. Makes 4 servings.

The next time you buy a car, get something you don't pay for:

a free checking account.

If you get one of our car loans, you get a free checking account for the duration of that loan. Now that may not be the biggest deal in the world, but it's nothing to sneeze at.

It can save you $72. Easily. Say you decide on a three-year car loan. And say your checking account charges average $2 a month. When you're not paying those charges, you'll save $24 a year. In three years that adds up to a tidy $72.

Which might lead you to suspect that we recoup the $72 by raising our interest rates. Not so.

Our bank interest rates are a savings in themselves. Because we know the lower they are, the more loans we make and the bigger we get. And even though we're a $900 million bank, we're still ambitious. So get your car loan at a bank that wants to get ahead. By saving you money.

We're Being Helpful

Good morning, good cooks.

Keeping with its policy of having its readers well informed, The Post will do all the good cooks in the area a good turn.

This good turn will consist of printing a list of equivalent measures so we can cut it out and have it handy. How often I've been in the middle of a recipe and wanted to translate a recipe into more convenient measurements and had to stop and dig out a cookbook to look up those measurements. I hasten to add that I love cookbooks and find great pleasure in leafing through them — but not when I'm in the middle of preparing a cake. It's most exasperating.

Assuming that many of you good cooks have had this same tiresome experience, The Post comes to the rescue.

EQUIVALENT MEASURES

Dash ..... less than one-eighth teaspoon
3 teaspoons ..... one tablespoon
4 tablespoons ..... one-fourth cup
5 tablespoons plus 1 teaspoon ..... one-third cup
8 tablespoons ..... one-half cup
12 tablespoons ..... three-fourths cup
16 tablespoons ..... 1 cup
1 cup ..... one-half pint
16 ounces ..... 1 pound
1 stick margarine 8 tablespoons or one-half cup

NOW THAT WE have these measurements at our fingertips, how about some recipes to use this handy knowledge?

This first recipe will strike a responsive cord with any surfers of your acquaintance and non-surfers, too, for that matter. A Pillsbury prize winner, it combines nuts, chocolate and marshmallows to make some terrific bars.

SURFER SQUARES

1 cup (6 oz.) package butterscotch pieces
¼ cup firmly packed brown sugar
¼ cup butter or margarine
1 egg
¾ cup all-purpose flour
1 teaspoon baking powder
.... teaspoon salt
1 cup (6 oz. package) semi-sweet chocolate bits
1 cup miniature marshmallows
½ cup chopped walnuts
1 teaspoon vanilla

In a large saucepan, melt the cup butterscotch pieces, one-fourth cup each brown sugar and butter over medium heat, stirring constantly. Remove from heat. Add the egg and beat well.

Sift together the three-fourths cup flour, one teaspoon baking powder and one-fourth teaspoon salt. Blend into the egg mixture. Stir in the package chocolate bits, one cup marshmallows, one-half cup walnuts and one teaspoon vanilla.

Spread in greased 8-inch square pan. Bake in 350-degree oven for 20 to 25 minutes. Cool; cut into bars. Makes 24 bars.

ANOTHER PRIZE winner that uses ready prepared ingredients and results in an eye appealing and tasty entree are these Barbecups.

POPPIN' FRESH BARBECUPS

¾ pound of ground beef
1 cup barbecue sauce
1 tablespoon instant minced onion
2 tablespoons brown sugar
1 can Tendeflake baking powder biscuits
¾cup shredded Cheddar cheese

In a large skillet brown the three-fourths pound ground beef and drain. Add the one-half cup barbecue sauce, one tablespoon minced onion and two tablespoons brown sugar. Set aside.

Separate the buscuit dough into 12 biscuits. Place one biscuit in each of 12 ungreased muffin cups pressing dough up sides to edge of cup. Spoon meat mixture into cups. Sprinkle each with cheese.

Bake at 400 degrees for 10 to 12 minutes, or until golden brown.

TIPS: Three-fourths cup pasteurized process cheese spread may be substitued for Cheddar cheese. Spoon 1 tablespoon on each meat filled cup.

VARIATIONS:

1 can (15 ounce) chili with beans may be used in place of the meat mixture. Spoon chili into biscuit-lined cups. Bake at 400 degrees for 15 to 18 minutes, or until golden brown.

1 can (13-ounce) baked beans and 3 frankfurters, chopped, may be used in place of meat filling. Spoon bean-frankfurter mixture into biscuit-lined cups. Bake at 400 degrees for 15 to 18 minutes or until golden brown.

All recipes are not difficult or time consuming; recently my neighbor Jaynie Cvitanich created this cake that requires a minimum of mixing and fixing.

JAYNIE'S CAKE

1 package yellow cake mix
1 can berry pie filling

Prepare the cake as directed on package. Bake in a greased and lightly floured pan 9x13x2 inches. When cake is within 10 minutes of done (as indicated on the caking chart on the side of cake package) remove from oven and spoon the berry pie filling over top of cake. Return to oven and bake 10 minutes longer. Remove and place on rack to cool.

This cake is delicious as is, but if you wish to gild the lily, or to be more explicit, to cream the berries, you may serve with either whipped cream or ice cream.

Simple to make and simply delicious to eat.

Ice Cream Social At DC Church

"Toyland Fantasy," a benefit show for a new nursery school, will be held Sunday at the Wesley Methodist Church from 3:30 to 5:30 p.m.

This event is an ice cream social, featuring homemade cake and ice cream. Magic will leave you wondering how it all happened; music by the "Holy Names Guitar Choir" will get you singing like not since when; "The Dance of the Dolls" by some cute little girls will make you "ooo and awww"; and your children will sit spellbound to the words of old familiar stories.

Mothers of the nursery school will be your hostesses — and they will be festively attired to put you into the mood of "Toyland Fantasy."

The church is at 1474 Southgate, between St. Francis Square and Serramonte. The ticket donation will be $1.25 for adults and 75 cents for children.

All proceeds go toward the establishment of a nursery school at the church.

McLean, Spiker Nuptials

Honeymooning in Victoria, B.C., are Mrs. and Mrs. Kenneth Hubert Spiker who were married Saturday at 1 p.m. at St. Catherine of Siena Church in Burlingame.

The Rev. Lawrence Goode officiated at the ceremony before an altar banked with white stock, gladioli and roses and flanked by four standards of white gladioli and fern with touches of yellow carnations.

The bride is the former Marlene Louise McLean whose parents, Mr. and Mrs. George McLean of Belmont, hosted the wedding reception and sitdown luncheon in the Pacifica Room of the Villa Hotel.

Marlene, who was escorted to the altar by her father, wore a traditional gown of ivory organza trimmed with embroidered Alencon lace and seed pearls on the Empire bodice and A-line skirt. A cascading Watteau train completed the silhouette and a Camelot cap of lace and pearls caught her bouffant veil. The bride carried an old-fashioned bouquet of white phalaenopsis orchids, chrysanthemums, carnations, baby roses, stephanotis and gypsophelia.

When she departed for her honeymoon destination, the bride had changed to a pale pink knit dress with pink shoes and hand bag.

Mrs. John Pourrouquet, the honor attendant, set the style of dress for the secondary attendants with her Empire gown of dandelion yellow. She carried orange ranunculus, yellow daisies, yellow miniature carnations and Zorina roses ith touches of mignonette and wore a wide headband of yellow daises, miniature carnations and Zorina roses.

Bridesmaids were Mrs. Robert Greenameyer, Mrs. Nate Simpson, Sue Dowling and Mrs. Steve Raul.

John Pourrouquet was best man for Kenneth, son of Mr. and Mrs. Cleon Spiker of San Bruno, and guests were seated by Robert McLean, Marlene's brother; Robert Green, brother-in-law of the bridegroom, Nate Simpson and Dan Pagee.

At the reception, Mrs. McLean greeted guests in a coral silk skirt and lace bodice to which she pinned a white orchid. Mrs. Spiker chose a blue silk ensemble with a jewel trim at the neckline and pinned on a white orchid with a purple throat.

White stock, iris, orange ranunculus, and yellow and orange carnations with white tapers were used at the reception. Among the guests were Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Stine of Paradise, maternal grandparents of the bride; Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Campbell and Patrick Michales of San Francisco, aunt and uncles of the bride.

The new Mrs. Spiker was graduated from Carlmont High School and spent a year at the University of Nevada. She was graduated from Healds Business College.

Kenneth was graduated from Capuchino High School and the University of California at Irvine and spent four years in the Marine Corps.

The couple will live in Belmont.

A Figure Drawing Class At Westmoor High Is Planned

The Jefferson Union High School District's Adult Division announced that a section of figure drawing will be included in their summer offerings between June 23 and July 31.

Figure drawing is the study of the human anatomy in terms of artistic expression. Live models will be presented both singly and in pairs during the six-week summer session.

Lar Landa, longtime art teacher with the Jefferson District, and only recently returned from a 14-month European and world tour of the world's art capitals, will conduct this summer program at Westmoor High School on Monday evenings for six weeks.

All adults interested in employing or refining their anatomical knowledge in art should register early, space is limited. An advance registration period will be held at Westmoor High School on Monday and Wednesday evenings, June 16 and 18. Classes will start June 23 from 7 to 10 p.m.

Sixth Grade 'Music Man' Production

The two sixth grade classes of Fernando Rivera School in Daly City will present "The Music Man" at Ben Franklin Intermediate School June 11 at 7:30 p.m.

There will be no admission charge and the public is invited.

"The Music Man" tells the story of "Professor" Harold Hill, a fast-talking salesman, who arrives in the little Iowa town of River City. He uses "con-man" tactics and promises to organize a town band. He sells the townsfolk uniforms and instruments, then skips out, leaving them equipped but untrained.

There are many lively, eye-catching tunes, such as "76 Trombones," 'Gary, Indiana" and ' the Wells Fargo Wagon.

Miss Virginia Conner, Mrs. Dorothy Schneider, and their two classes have devoted many hours to making this a successful production, attention given to costumes and scenery to create an authentic flavor to the production.

Miss Chris Petterson and Mrs. Kem Martinez, school music teachers, and Mrs. Muriel Vint, district music consultant, helped with the musical numbers.

Potluck Luncheon

Members of the SSFWC will participate in a potluck luncheon on June 5 at 11:30 a.m. preceding their last regular monthly meeting for this club year, on Thursday in the Club House, 470 Grand Avenue, South San Francisco.

The special program commencing at 1:30 will be guest speakers, pro and con, on the subject of Bay Area Rapid Transit for San Mateo County.

Miss Karen Harvath, representative for Governmental Research Council of "Yes" for Transit Master Plan will make a presentation.

A representative for the "no" side to this plan also will be present.

Transit Plan Topic For Clubwomen

Members of the South San Francisco Woman's Club will participate in a potluck luncheon Thursday at 11:30 a.m. preceding their final meeting for the season. Both events will take place in the clubhouse, 470 Grand Avenue, South San Francisco.

A special program, beginning at 1:30 p.m., will present speakers both for and against Bay Area Rapid Transit for San Mateo County. Karen Harvath, representative for the Governmental Research Council of "Yes" for the Transit Master Plan, will discuss that side; a representative for the "no" side will give the rebuttal. A question and answer period will follow.

Mrs. Ralph Marcus, president, has announced that she will represent the club from Wednesday through Saturday on a three-day Pacific Gas and Electric Company tour of the hydro-electric properties on the Feather River. She will join 25 other female community and civic leaders from the San Francisco and North County areas.

Mrs. Carmelo Imprescia, veterans affairs chairman, has again issued a call for more donations of cookies to help supply the USO at the Airport and for donations of clothing for patients at the Palo Alto Veterans Hospital.

The Garden Section will visit Redwood City on June 12 and lunch at the King's Table. Mrs. Fred Curtis is taking reservations.

A treat the children will love.

Dorcas Society On Coast Sets Meet

The women of the Dorcas Welfare Society of the Pacifica Seventh Day Adventist Church will be meeting at the home of Mrs. Harry Chaney, 1389 Crespi Drive, Pacifica, for a day-long work session on June 8.

Two hundred plastic bags will be filled with a change of clothing, toothbrush and toothpaste, a face towel, and a wash cloth. These are to be sent to the Disaster Relief Center located in Watsonville.

The Adventist denomination last year was able to provide on-the-spot emergency assistance to some 8 million people in 42 different countries. This help, which includes such items as clothing, bedding, medicine, tents and food, is given without regard to race or creed.

Whether the problem is a flood in California, drought in Peru, an earthquake in Turkey, or starvation in Biafra, the Seventh Day Adventists are ready to act. On each coast of the United States is a large warehouse of the church stockpiled with relief supplies, baled for immediate overseas shipment. In addition, the denomination maintains some 700 Health and Welfare Service Centers across the nation where supplies are held in readiness for local disaster needs.

Cited by the social science department was student body president Charles Freiberg. Pat Donohue, a familiar figure on Westmoor's Little Theater Stage, received honors from the drama department. Nancy Reid and Doug Isla were commended for their outstanding work in homemaking and industrial arts, respectively.

The math and science departments bestowed their honors to Bank of America trophy awardee in math and science, Michael Brown, and Bausch and Lomb Science Scholarship winner Andrew Poggio, respectively. Deemed for her excellence in the area of music was Robin Kramer, who is student director of the band. Artistic creativity earned James Torlakson, honors from the art department. Bank of America fine arts trophy awardee, Jeanie Olsen, and Edward DeLuna were honored by girls' and boys' physical education department.

Westmoor Cafeteria Transformed for Seniors

Adhering to tradition, Westmoor's cafeteria underwent elegant transformation and became the setting of the annual Senior Recepton on May 29 at 2 p.m.

French Petits fours, decorated cakes, spicy tarts and iced cup cakes filled the menu of specially prepared delicacies which tempted the 500 parents and graduating seniors. Directly following the awards assembly, each senior brought his invited parents to the reception held in honor of the graduating seniors. Wives of Westmoor's administrators, acting as hostesses, poured coffee and punch, while home economics students kept the tables well laden. They were also responsible for the green and white school-color decorations and flower arrangements.

During the regular lunch time, that day, the cafeteria served only bag lunches and snack bar products. The many hectic days of preparation on the part of the cafeteria staff was appreciated by seniors, their teachers and parents. Mrs. Dot Rockwell, a long-time member of the staff is credited with the intricate baking technique in producing the delicacies. Mrs. Vivian Gordon, Westmoor's cafeteria manager was in charge of the affair.

The Comedia del Arte Troupe of Westmoor High continues in the style of wondering players out of the Italian Renaissance as they collect compliments for their most recent engagements at Pauline Brown and Vista Grance elementary schools.

The troupe's repertoire includes "Pantoloni's Peculiar Present," a moralistic tale with a cast of greedy characters; "Valley of the Dolls," a pantomime set to the tune of "Nutcracker Suite"; "Gertrude Me Fuzz," a monologue by Dr. Suess; and "Carderella" a fractured fairy tale.

Most of their work is directed toward younger audiences, as they are constantly in demand among grammar schools. Therefore, they often highlight their productions with chase scenes, pie throwing, and song and dance routines. Nevertheless, the Troupe also enjoys performing for older audiences in order that they may replace slapstick with a more sophisticated humor.

Comedia del Arte hopes to extend their performances into the summer. Engagements are tentative.

Chosen by four fellow classmates and two Westmoor faculty members, Cathy Meade, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Meade who reside at 80 Maddux Drive, Daly City will be the class of '69's Senior Speaker at the Westmoor Commencement on June 11.

Using Westmoor's traditional theme, "Today the Classroom, Tomorrow the World," Cathy will emphasize the hope "the idealistic youth of today will make the world of tomorrow better." In the future Cathy sees teens as striving for more relevant education: "Learning from our parents and our own successes and failures, we hope to improve society."

Active in National Thespians and working on play crews and makeup on several of Westmoor Plays, Cathy is also a member of California Scholarship Federation.

With the ambition to become a professional music arranger or teacher, Bill Brown, a graduating senior at Westmoor, was awarded a summer scholarship to Berkeley School of Music, located in Boston.

Bill attained the scholarship by sending a taped recording of himself performing on a classical guitar three songs, one of which was an improvisational piece, the next, "Gen Mojo's Well Laid Plan," and the last song, "The Things We Did Last Summer," was arranged by Bill.

SERRAMONTE HIGH SCHOOL NEWS BRIEFS

A Serramonte English class taught by Don Patterson has been working on individual projects of their choice and inviting guest speakers to address the class on various subjects such as the Seventh Step Foundation, Childbirth, Astrology and Satanic Worship.

Because of student interest a member of the John Birch Society arrived on campus to present the ideas of the Society.

Basil Gladieaux, area director of the John Birch Society, opened his speech discussing the history and formation of the society by Robert Welsh and its connection with John Birch. He also discussed the publications by the society, the main one being American Opinion.

Some questions asked of him were "What is Freedom?" "What does the American Opinion Represent?" "How do you feel about Sex Education?" and "How Do You View the Vietnam Crisis?"

Gladieaux made a firm effort to get across the ideas that there are many people in the United States who are Communists seeking to undermine American democracy, that Communism is bad, and that the John Birch Society gives the "other side" of the truth.

He gave the impression there is a Communist hiding around every corner.

The following day the Rev. Howard Bryant discussed the Daly City Information and Referrel Center. He gave a brief run-down on the purpose and need of the center, pointing out many conditions in the "target areas," the number of families on welfare, redevelopment housing needs, and program in connection with the San Mateo Damien House to help drug addicts.

He also explained the many diverse functions of the center and the need for adequate funds to continue the operation of the center to assist needy citizens of Daly City.

Serramonte's first annual Executive Board dinner was held at Toto's Restaurant.

Old and new members, class presidents, and appointed Executive Board members were present.

They were Tom Nuri, Jim deAlba, Robyn Neuhaus, Meg Milani, Bev Gates, Josephine Wang, Michelle Fotenont, Eugene Smotkin, Dave Silverman Cathy Bradish, Lewis Frucht, Anita Brooks, Yolanda Bell, Leslie Roay, and Shelley Wolf. Paul Perez, vice principal and Executive Board advisor; Lou Martin, principal, were present.

Perez was presented a desk set, to be engraved by the Executive Boards of 1968-1969.

H-A Women's Guild to Meet

The 1969-70 Executive Board of Holy Angel's Women's Guild will be installed during the celebration of the Mass today at 7:30 p.m. at Holy Angels Church on San Pedro Road, Colma.

Members and friends are urged to attend.

After the installation, a short meeting will be held in the parish hall.

TERRA NOVA TOPICS . . .

By Alice Reichert

The nation-wide all time favorite holiday is approaching rapidly! And as that special last day of school draws nearer, all the campus is buzzing busily with annual end of the year activities.

Tiger Tales' Senior edition is now in the mill, and will soon be on sale on campus and at several Pacifica stores. Of course this, the final edition of the year, will be dedicated to the graduating Class of '69. Special Senior features include: the Senior popularity polls; wills; memories, both good and bad; CSF Life Memberships and scholarship awards. Also included are: an interview with TN teacher Thomas McGrail, who was a special aide to General Eisenhower during World War II; Department Awards; a picture story of the Tiger Tales staff.

Year books will soon be out, and all this week the yearbook staff will be selling over a thousand unused pictures to interested students. The pictures range from 2-inch by 2-inch sports shots to giant blow ups of the Junior Prom and Homecoming. Prices began at 5 cents.

As for next year's Tigers, campus days are filled looking forward to the '69-'70 school year. The executive board has been selected: President, Bud Gonzalez; vice president, Lowell James; secretary, Vickie Rainsford; treasurer, Mike Humphrey. Commissioners: clubs, Margie Kingshill; publicity, Deanna Raawe; rallies and assemblies, Angela Capizano; athletics, Ed Dellarocca; student control and safety, Phillip Taylor.

The spirit staff has also been selected.

New classes for next year are being talked about and organized. The art department will be presenting a new club, whose function will be to provide publicity for campus clubs and organizational activities. The profits made will go toward worthwhile art projects and scholarships.

But, of course, for the time being, final exams are here. Even the spirited Class of '69 must settle down long enough to finish the year's grades.

3 D.C. Girls Earn Mercy High Honors

Three Daly City graduates of Mercy High School in San Francisco were awarded top honors at the Thursday (May 29) Awards Assembly in Barrett Hall by Sister Mary Consolata, principal.

Susan Kern, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hobert Kern, 295 Campan Avenue, qualified in competitive examination for a California State Scholarship and received the National High School Award for Excellence, Mercy Librarian Award, and the Life Membership in Mercy Integrity Honor Society.

In addition to qualifying in competition for a California State Scholarship, Therese Loof, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John A. Loof, 8 Elmwood Drive, received the National High School Award for Excellence with Distinction, Life Membership in the California Scholarship Federation, Quill and Scroll, and the Most Valuable Staffer Award of the Times-Post publishers — both for excellence in the field of journalism.

Sheryl Stuhr, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Stuhr, 173 Del Prado Drive, winner of the plaque for Distinctive Achievement in Fine Arts from the Bank of America, was awarded a life membership in the California Scholarship Federation and two music awards — the Outstanding Membership of the Glee Club and the Four Year Participation citation of the orchestra.

Bandsmen's Trip Was 'Exciting', 'Thrilling'

YWCA Gets Set To 'Synergise'

YWCA board members in San Francisco, Marin, and San Mateo counties have received orange, purple, and pink invitations from their new three-county president, Emily (Mrs. Henry K.) Evers, to "synergise the YWCA" at the Evers' family ranch in Sonoma, June 6.

Emily gets "synergise" from husband Henry, an investment counselor whom Emily says already is functioning as a sort of unofficial vice president of the YW. Henry explains the term has a business meaning: make a whole that is stronger than the parts."

"Divergent" is the right word for the YW, Emily reports. "We're all ages, all races, and all religions."

So synergising is what Emily, and the YWCA Board are up to.

They also plan to swim in the Evers' pool, and stay for one of Emily's faublous patio luncheons.

NEWLY ELECTED officers of Mary's Help Hospital Guild recently were installed at the guild's annual installation breakfast. Seated are Mrs. Mario Mangini, recording secretary; Mrs. Clifton D. A Deep Respect For Golf Game

We're afraid we left the wrong impression last week with our diatribe on the practice of calling virtually any and all golf tournaments "classics," despite the fact that they rarely promise to be and even more rarely turn out to be.

We do indeed appreciate the game and its practioneers, perhaps more than anyone realizes. One would have to be as bad a golfer as we once were (and a left-hander, to boot) to so deeply appreciate the game's pit-falls, and since there has possibly never in the history of the game been as bad a left or right-handed golfer as we were (we use the past tense not because we have improved but because we have quit), we naturally come to the conclusion that we appreciate the rigors of golf perhaps as much as one can.

"What always frustrated us most about the game was that on the driving range we were a phenom — long and straight. On the practice putting green we could sink curving uphill 30 footers right handed while conversing with friends and listening to a ball game at the same time. But when we got on the course, the magic disappeared. One of our golfing partners once described the malady as "no guts," while holding his hand to his Adam's apple and jiggling it, to indicate choking. It was about as reasonable a diagnosis as we could ever have expected.

We do contend in all modesty, however, that even on the course we were without parallel in smashing those little yellow flowers long and straight down the fairway. We were so successful at that practice during our prime, in fact, that we were once offered a job by the club pro at Harding—as a gardener.

Which brings to mind one of the most heart-warming stories in golfing annals. Jose Bloom was the name, and he was a groundskeeper and gardener at a local course. He had always longed to be a pro, and stayed close to the game in that way. One day he read the life story of Kid Gvilan and how he had developed his famed bolo punch by chopping sugar cane in his native Cuba with a bolo knife. Jose took a page from the Keed's book and promptly began using a driver to trim the course. In time he developed a flawless swing and was soon touring the circuit.

He gave pansy bed trick shooting exhibitions at some of the most exclusive women's gardening clubs in the country, and wrote a column in Better Homes and Gardens called, "Golfing Made Easier by Dallying in the Garden." He left indelible marks on the sports scene wherever he passed, marks which may never be surpassed.

Bloom astounded the sports world at the San Francisco World's Fair in 1939 when he completed his now legendary "Grand Slam" by trimming a hedge quicker and more neatly with a mashie than defending all-around world's champion gardener Pierre Benetar. Benetar had won the championship using all standard gardening equipment! Bloom had begun his assault on the Slam when he captivated women shoppers one day at Macy's by consecutively knocking carnations from the lapels of 10 floor walkers with a nine iron and without their knowledge. He next used only a hand mashie and a putter to successfully pick a bundle of flowers from the White House lawn without being arrested, and in the presence of a President who wasn't a golf enthusiast. And he had capped his great feats just prior to the World's Fair with a record-breaking fifth consecutive win at the National Open for Flower Lovers in the Garden City.

Jose met a tragic and ironic end on one of the local courses several years ago when, while attempting to get out of the rough, he hit a bee who had been sunning itself inside a geranium. The irate bee promptly notified his hive, who joined forces and chased Jose into a small lake, which he shanked and in which he subsequently drowned, betrayed by the flowers he had loved. Even in death, however, Jose found glory. In hitting the water and sinking immediately, he set a new NCAA record for drowning. He was gone in 24.2.

At his request, he was cremated and his ashes made into a sand trap on the 18th hole of that local course at which he had perished.

We imagine his ashes have since been scattered to the four winds.

To keep the funnies moving (oh, couldn't you tell?), how about the one were Gabe Paul (vice president - treasurer - general manager of the Cleveland Indians) said of Alvin Dark, the losingest manager in baseball this year:

"I have never had more respect for Alvin Dark than I do now. I have greater regard for him now than I ever had before our association.

"Some of the greatest managing jobs in baseball are done when a team is losing and that's the way I feel about Alvin Dark."

Now, we just can't make that funnier by commenting on it, except we wonder how Paul will handle Dark when he starts winning. Fire him?

And where does that leave guys like Walt Ashton and Al Lopez and Leo Durocher and Red Schoendienst and yes, even Herman Franks?

You've got to admit that Paul's new theory, if embraced universally, could upset a lot of previous thinking on such matters. Why, Lafayette Cross and Joe Quinn, who managed Cleveland to its immortal all-time losing season (134 games) in 1898 would have been installed in the Hall of Fame instead of never managing again. Fred Merkle and Ralph Branca would have appeared in Ed Sullivan's audience. Sonny Tufts would now be owner of at least four Oscars. Edsell Ford would be revolutionizing the auto industry—and maybe even having O. J. Simpson doing commercials for it. Roy Riegels and Wrong Way Corrigan would have been an All-American and bathed in ticker-tape, respectively. Hurrican Jackson would have been dis-barred. Tom Dewey might have made the comeback before Richard Nixon. You get the idea. The possibilities are endless.

We imagine that Bill Rigney, who was rumored to have been offered the Cleveland job before Dark, sort of wishes he had opted to work for Gabe. Instead of sitting around his Walnut Creek home now, he'd probably be in the midst of signing a new million dollar five-year contract.

Bowling Notes

Westlake Bowl

By JIM GREALISH

Dick Rentschler took Bowler of the Week honors as he rolled ten consecutive strikes in his first game of the 960 Scratch League then left a 4-7 split which he converted for a great 288 game. Dick finished with a 636 series to take top honors in that department.

WINE BUST

Three youngsters, their ages ranging from 12 to 14, were removed Thursday from Serra Theatre, allegedly for drinking wine inside the Colma movie house. Police reprimanded the trio and released them to their South San Francisco parents.

Jeff Takes 4th Place In Tourney

Jefferson baseball coach Tom Martinez figured he needed a super-human effort from pitcher Nick Gentile in the battle for this place in the Redwood Tournament of Champions Saturday in order for the Indians to win their uphill battle.

He got such an effort but it still wasn't quite enough as the co-champions of the North Peninsula League lost to Richmond, 1-0, on an unearned run and took fourth place after plahing four games in three days.

Gentile ended his prep career pitching a complete seven-inning game Friday night striking out 10 and came right back less than 24 hours later to barely lose out to a Richmond team that had a 25-3 record to that game. The fastballing pitcher struck out eight and walked none giving him a season-ending total of 13 tournament innings pitched, 18 strikeouts, one walk, one earned run and allowed five hits.

Shortstop Ken Reitz, who came alive at bat as well as on the field, was the sole Indian selection on the star team.

Two Deacons Slated For Ordination

The community of St. Andrew's Catholic Church, Daly City, is holding an Ordination of Deacons, on Saturday June 7 at 10 a.m. at Westmoor High School gymnasium.

Gene Quinones and John Dillon Riley, two seminarians who have assisted St. Andrew's this year will be ordained deacons. This ordination to the Diaconate is ordinarily held at St. Patrick's Seminary. Since St. Andrew's community has had a significant effect on their formation, they wish to celebrate this ordination with their community.

In association with Fr. James Moher, as ministers of the Gospel, they will work with their people in the formation of this new community in Daly City.

Singers Will Appear

Vacation Church Classes Planned

Jess Mark, chairman of the Ecumenical Bible School, announced this week the ambitious plans of Daly City churches to conduct Vacation Church Schools in three locations:

1—Second Baptist and Grace United Presbyterian will cooperate to provide a school at 515 Winchester Street (and Crocker Street).

2—Westlake Baptist, Wesley Methodist and Broadmoor Presbyterian are pooling their resources to provide the summer experience at 377 87th Street.

3—Seacliff United Methodist and Westlake Lutheran will work together to provide a vacation program at the Lutheran facility on Avalon and Westmoor.

All three schools will conduct their programs at the same date, June 16-20. There is some variation in the style and schedules of the schools, but each offer to the child a vacation experience which will enrich his summer.

A registration fee of $1 is suggested to support the schools.

City Engineer Reschke Quits Post in Daly City

Art Reschke, city engineer of Daly City for the past four years, has resigned to accept a post in the City and County of San Francisco's Bureau of Engineering.

City Manager Ed Frank announced Reschke's resignation Wednesday. It will be effective June 15.

Reschke came to Daly City five years ago, as a senior civil engineer, from the State Division of Bay Toll Crossings, with San Francisco headquarters.

As city engineer, Reschke has been director of the Daly City Public Works Department, and engineering on the new Civic Center—a $2½-million project—was under his direction.

In San Francisco, Reschke will become a field construction engineer. He said he will take a drop in salary for a while.

He and his wife and their two sons, Dennis, 13, who will graduate from Benjamin Franklin Intermediate School, and Armin, who will be graduated from Westmoor High School.

Suspect Faked Appendicitis, Jailers Say

Matthew Loncaric, the county jail prisoner who has been walking around doubled up but had steadfastly refused to submit to an operation for what two physicians diagnosed as acute appendicitis, was exposed Friday as a fraud.

Sheriff's Capt. Donald J. Hartnett said Loncaric, 27, who is awaiting trial on a murder charge, was overheard admitting to a visitor that he was faking appendicitis in the hope that he could find an opportunity to escape at the hospital.

The doctors, Hartnett said, apparently relied upon Loncaric's description of his symptoms in reaching their diagnosis. When the prisoner was first taken to the hospital, the captain explained, he refused to allow the doctors to touch him or to administer a blood test.

The truth was learned Wednesday night, according to Hrrtnett, when a jailer who was monitoring Loncaric's conversation with a visitor heard him admit the malingering. Yesterday, Hartnett said, Loncaric was taken back to County General Hospital where he agreed to have a blood test taken. The test was negative.

Loncaric, a South San Francisco welder, and Donald Sheppard, 22, of Pacifica, are scheduled to stand trial June 16 for the murder of Orville Spork, 74, in his San Bruno gun shop February 18. They allegedly robbed Spork of more than $4,000.

Jeff Vandals

A large window was smashed and paste was spread over others at Jefferson High School on Mission Street, Daly City, on Saturday, according to police.

'Mayor's Night' at The Popular Leaning Tower

Monday evening marked a history-making event at the South San Francisco Leaning Tower restaurant. Joe and Lou Ercoli hosted Mayor Alioto of San Francisco and his special guest, the Mayor of Lucca, Italy. His excellency the Mayor of Lucca is visiting the Bay Area gathering Sister City information to take home and put into practice . . . Open daily, except Sunday, for both luncheon and dinner, the CoteD'Azur in Atherton is one of the few Peninsula restaurants of elegance serving luncheon on Saturday until 4 p.m. Pianobar entertainment nightly in the intimate cocktail lounge, where bartender Walter DeiRossi is extra smiles these nights. His son, Gary, has been elected president of the student body at Carlmont High School in San Carlos for the coming year . . . "To eat or not to eat?", that is the question. Whether it is nobler to suffer indigestion or to enjoy gourmet cuisine at The Cathedral, a new espresso cafe on Burlingame Avenue. Choose from open-faced sandwiches served on Danish pumpernickel, salads, an assortment of cheese, cold cuts and even old-fahioned sundaes. The Cathedral is a must on thy dine out list.

Lou Ercoli

MUSICAL FAVORITE—Attractive Nancy Valencia, who presides at the organ Monday through Fridays at Longleys, has zoomed business in the cocktail lounge from 5 p.m. to 8 p.m. to an all-time high. Dinner and cocktails are Longley's specials.

Louis Gundunas, owner of the Balkan Village, who is now a featured performer in "Zorba,' the Broadway hit, will appear on "What's My Line," the famous quiz show where the guests try to guess your occupation, on Friday, June 6. The show was taped recently and the panel failed to identify his unusual occupation (he lifts a table with his teeth and dances). Lou will be back at the Balkan Village on July 1 . . . Countless diners are taking advantage of the Tuesday through Saturday Quarter Horse Night Racing at Bay Meadows by making up dinner parties. The restaurant is open from 6 p.m., with post time for the first race at 7:45 p.m. . . . The Lanai, San Mateo's original South Sea restaurant, has an "Island vacation" treat for Peninsulans and their out-of-town guests. You'll enjoy the tropical atmosphere and decor.

Romano's Restaurant Hosts Civic Groups

Every Tuesday at 12:15 p.m., Romano's Italian restaurant at Rockaway Beach, Pacifica, is the setting for a special luncheon of the Rotary Club of Pacifica, with Vice-President Enrico Romano always in attendance. Members were ecstatic over the menu, the expert service and the atmosphere. So look forward to many future luncheons at Romano's . . . Fred and Jerry Rapp, genial owners of the South San Francisco Holiday Inn, have added a new convenience for their patrons in the way of a barber shop. You might say you can now "get clipped" at the Holiday Inn . . . A colorful example of the unique entertainment being offered at the new Kabuki Theater-Restaurant is the delightful Shiro Nuka Horse Dance offered by the 75 Japanese dancing girls. The theater, located at 1881 Post Street, San Francisco, is America's only authentic Japanese theater. It is open for luncheon and dinner, Tuesdays through Sundays . . . A group of Pacific Telephone executives, headed by F. D. Gabin, held their dinner-meeting in the Executive Room at Lew Lehr's Steak House in San Francisco's Marina.

Enrico Romano

Ron Giannotti's Surf House is in full "business bloom," what with the New Union Squares playing for dinner-dancing Friday and Saturday nights from 9 p.m. . . . Among the elegant restaurants to stay open seven days a week are Adrian Stickney's restaurants (five locations) . . . For Italian a la carte dining, try Woodlake Joe's on Peninsula Avenue. Take out service is also available. Ample free parking in the Woodlake Shopping Center . . . Margie Brandon at Baron's Lounge on Powell Street sings a variety of songs in Spanish, French, Hawaiian, Greek, Tagalog (Philippine), Italian, Russian, Japanese and Hebrew . . . Giuseppe D'Amato, head pizza boss at the La Dolce Pizzan on coast highway (two miles north of Half Moon Bay) practices the old world art of pizza throwing . . . The Sebastian Three continue to pack 'em in at Al Wagner's V.I.P. Lounge on Friday and Saturday nights from 9 p.m. They play everything from rock to a "cool" Fox Trot . . . If you want to buckle down to some serious eating, order Baby Spare Ribs at the Shirt Tail in Palo Alto. A mini-costumed waitress will tie a plastic bib around your neck so you can give the ribs your undivided attention . . . Vince Russo says the banquet business at his Russo's in San Bruno is going great. If your group is planning a special function, early reservations are suggested.

Ron Giannotti

Tino's European restaurant in San Mateo, operated by Sal, Rosario, Umberto and Tony Costantino, is known for its unusual French and Italian cuisine. Five special lunches are served Monday through Friday from 11:30 a.m. to 2 p.m. includes salad and coffee) for the busy business man — and the tab is $1.96 to $2.35. Dinners are served daily from 5 p.m. to 10 p.m. . . . Bruno's in San Francisco Mission and the Friars' Club will co-sponsor their Third Annual Golf Tournament on June 24. The Cypress Hills Course will host the action with big names, big trophies and prizes plus hole-in-one award that promises to be a lulu for the lucky winner . . . "Food for every taste" is the byword at the Hillsdale Farmers Market. Choose your favorite dishes from countries from all over the world. Open Sundays, too . . . If you've been wondering why Chuck Winstead of Yolanda's Terminal Cafe hasn't been on the job during the day, drop in around 4 a.m. and you will see his smiling face — he's working the "Graveyard Shift." Girls: if you're looking for a job as a night waitress, contact Chuck or Yolanda . . . Taste tips of the week: Scotty Campbell's 'Gourmet Platter For Two" (consists of sliced sirloin, barbecued ribs, chicken and scampi) . . . For a feast of sea food, order Crab Legs and Prawns with Rice as only Vince's Italian and Seafood restaurant serves it . . . A German feature at The Shadows of San Mateo is Kasseler Rippchen, Erbsen Puree, Sauerkraut (smoked pork loin, puree of peas and sauerkraut). . . . Congratulations are in order: Doug Kaplan, son of the Carlyle jeweler, Paul Kaplan, was elected Student Body President of the Aragon High School for next year. Doug, no doubt, will follow the gourmet restaurant path his Dad cut out before him.

Skid Marks Move State To Rebuild

Skid marks on Interstate 280 in Daly City have moved the California Division of Highways to make some changes at the Junipero Serra Boulevard intersection. This week it called for bids and announced it was ready to spend $8,000 to correct the situation.

A concrete divider will be modified at the point where Interstate 280 and Junipero Serra Boulevard (Route 1) meet.

Northbound Interstate 280 is five lanes as it approaches the point where Junipero Serra Boulevard continues straight north, and Interstate 280 curves to the right.

"Skid marks on the raised concrete median in advance of the divider indicate that drivers find themselves in the wrong lane and thus make improper lane changes at that site," a state Department of Public Work release said.

"The corrective measure will shorten the raised concrete island by 175 feet, to provide additional maneuvering room"

Bids will be opened June 25 in Sacramento.

Wrong Home For Burglars

Two San Francisco youths were jailed in Daly City Wednesday, on charges of attempted burglary.

Daly City police said John R. Werner, 19, of 1858 Sunnyvale and a 17 year old companion were accused of attempting to enter the home of Daly City Police Sgt. Dennis Sheehy.

Daly City Adds Its Own Charges

James R. Kraft, 24, of 155 Peoria, Daly City, wanted on a Marin County warrant charging him with burglary, was arrested on that and two Daly City charges when authorities took him into custody Thursday.

When Marin County sheriff's deputies and Daly City police went to his home they allegedly found dangerous drugs in his possession, so he was booked additionally on charges of possessing dangerous drugs and being in a place where narcotics are being used, according to police.

Girl Flees Her Mother

A 16-year-old Daly City girl who fled from her mother's car while enroute to Mary's Help Hospital was apprehended by two policemen in a nursery school's parking lot last week.

A police spokesman said the girl apparently was under the influence of drugs, and was described as very irrational and calm one second, but very loud, disorderly and violent the next.

6th Symphony Rehearsal Season Near

South San Francisco's sixth Summer Symphony season under the direction of Robert Bridges will begin rehearsals for the 1969 season during the week of June 16-20 at South S.F. High School Auditorium. The symphony program, which is sponsored by the South San Francisco Recreation and Parks Department, will include eight weeks of rehearsals for a symphonic band, symphonic orchestra and a small wind ensemble.

The band and wind ensemble will meet on Monday and Friday evenings and the symphony orchestra will meet each Wednesday evening 7-9:30.

Membership in the South San Francisco Symphony is open to any interested musicians. Technical ability requirements will be determined after the initial rehearsals. There is no fee and musicians of all ages are encouraged to participate. For further information, contact the South San Francisco Recreation and Parks Department.

Mrs. Krips Heads Drive

The Save Our Bay Action Committee announced the acceptance by Mrs. Rera Krips of the chairmanship for the Daly City area.

Mrs. Krips, who resides at 336 St. Francis, is organizing a petition campaign in the Daly City area and seeks volunteers.

Mrs. Krips has information sheets, petitions, and also, invitations for the "Great Bay Boat Trip," June 1. The petition collecting party, according to a flier, promises main brace splicing as well as luncheon and entertainment.

Yuba City Aide To Daly City

Daly City Manager Ed Frank today announced the appointment of Don Fleming of Yuba City as assistant to the city manager of Daly City.

Fleming, who is currently assistant to the manager of Yuba City, will assume the Daly City post June 2, replacing David Rowe, who will assume the manager's post in Daly City upon Frank's retirement July 31.

Fleming, 27, is a public administration graduate of the University of Southern California, and has served in the Yuba City post for five years.

He is married, and has two children.

Head Start Program In SSF Ending

The South San Francisco Head Start pre-school program, offering also dental, health, psychological and social services for 22 low-income children in the area and on-the-job training and education for their parents will conclude in June.

The program for the children runs from 9:30 to 12:30, Monday through Friday. It began the last week of October at St. Paul's Methodist Church, 500 Miller Avenue, South San Francisco.

The main goals of the program are to give each child a chance to build his confidence in himself, his home, and his school, and to provide the experiences he needs to prepare him for kindergarten.

To do this, the staff, parents, and volunteers help each child learn to communicate and share with others, to develop his senses, to solve problems and, since the majority of children in this year's class are Spanish-speaking, to think and express himself in two different languages.

No matter how he spends his time—whether it's working at the puzzle table, playing fireman in the block area, visiting a zoo, making tortillas, singing Mexican songs, or listening to a story, the child builds confidence in himself.

Another important part of the program are the parents who act as volunteers. The children's parents work in the classroom, assist in the school's dental, medical, and nutrition programs, and use the psychological and social services provided by Head Start. The primary objective of Head Start is to work with people, not for them.

Burglars At D.C. Home

Burglars smashed in the front door of the Phylis Carlson residence at 141 Chester Street, Daly City, and took $600 in currency and two table model television sets, police said.

The theft occurred between 1 and 2 p.m. Wednesday, reports indicated.

Blast Misses Officer; D.C. Man Held

A Daly City man was arrested on a charge of aggravated assault Friday after he allegedly fired a shotgun blast at a police officer.

Police said John Myers, 48, of 174 Santa Barbara Street, was arrested at 8:30 p.m. after a single blast from an automatic shotgun had been fired at officer Tom Barner.

Officers said Barner was dispatched to 280 Santa Barbara when neighbors telephoned and reported "a disturbance involving a man with a gun."

When the officer arrived, he spotted a man aiming the shotgun out a window of the house, the residence of a neighbor.

Police said Barner grabbed two small children who were playing on the sidewalk in front of the house, and dived behind his patrol car as he heard the shotgun blast.

Five other officers were dispatched to the scene after residents reported "a policeman under fire."

Capt. John Walsh, Lt. Charles Terry and Sgt. John Kolbmann forced open the door of the residence and apprehended Myers, who offered no resistance.

When the officers entered the house, a shotgun was in a closet and was empty, police reports said, and it had apparently been loaded with only one shell.

Officers were dispatched to the neighborhood earlier Friday when residents reported a man with a gun was involved in an argument with a neighbor.

When police arrived, about 6:50 p.m., they found Myers involved in a disturbance, but no gun was in evidence.

The earlier row was apparently settled, officers said, and Myers returned to his own home.

Police said he appeared to have been drinking heavily.

Myers will be arraigned Monday in North County Municipal Court.

Jeff Library Aides Guests At a Coffee

Some 200 volunteer library aides were honored at a "coffee" recently by the library staff of the Jefferson Elementary School District.

The library aides assist in the operation of the District's 19 elementary school libraries, handling the routine, but essential chores of keeping the libraries open for the children during most of the school day, and freeing the district's professional librarians for direct work with children.

In praising the work of the library aides, JESD Director of Instructional Materials, Robert E. Muller said, "The value of the time that these ladies provide is immeasurable.

"Because of their more than generous service, the children in our schools have access to their libraries all day long. We couldn't operate our library program without them."

Superintendent Frank Greenwood added that "the Board of Trustees and the teachers of our district are very appreciative of the service that these library aides are providing to the children in our schools."

Muller added that the district's elemenatry libraries have circulated over 300,000 books this year. "This record circulation would not have been possible without the help of this dedicated group of volunteers," he said.

The "coffee" was being organized by the JESD elementary library staff: Mrs. Younga Hennessey, Miss Joan Roggen, Miss Charmaine Beckman, Mrs. Melanie Fernekes, Miss Mary O'Rourke, Mrs. Carolyn Billheimer, Mrs. Vivienne Smith, and Mrs. Maude Flack, Head Elementary Librarian.

Newmans Are "Old Shoes"

Joanne Woodward's secret love is ballet. Her public one is Paul Newman. Paul Newman's secret love is fast cars. His public one is Joanne Woodward.

They're really as ordinary as old shoes, as unglamorous as your next door neighbors and as nice as you'd want them to be. We lunched Saturday at the Fairmont Hotel and they could have been long lost cousins, or old classmates. Nothing tense about them, direct answers to direct questions and no little ego I forgot I was doing an interview and got into a long womanly discussion with Joanne about home and family. We later went shopping for gifts for the children.

But don't mistake their popularity. It's enormous. Some women would pale at the thought of meeting him, piercing bright blue eyes and all. He doesn't have that charisma, that outward sex appeal that he projects on the screen and they frankly admitted they'd rather talk about politics than films.

In town to inaugurate their latest business ventures, Jay Sebring's elegant barber shop on Commercial Street, the former McBlum's and to talk about their most recent film, "Winning," the two admitted to being "campaigners from way back." They worked for Stevenson and McCarthy, claiming he "did a great deal of good by forcing people to take sides."

MISS WOODWARD, OR MRS. NEWMAN AS SHE PREFERS TO BE CALLED, was lobbying in Washington, D.C. as another Mother For Peace during the Mothers March and only met McCarthy then, for half an hour.

"I'm really only a shill. I stand up and have my picture taken and everyone else does all the work."

With her blonde hair tied casually into a pony tail with a scarf, she'd brought her mother out from Connecticut where they own a home, to sight-see in S.F. The Newmans currently reside in Beverly Hills.

"I still think I should have had the Academy Award for Rachel, Rachel. Certainly the picture should have had some recognition because of my husband's efforts. We made it close to home for the same amount of money it costs to show the film clip of Barbra Streisand singing 'Don't Rain on My Parade,' aboard the ferry boat. We ended up making three times the amount of money we hoped it would bring in. I only went to the Award presentations because Paul said I had to," she chided.

"But we'll never go again. The whole thing is barbaric and the system should be corrected," Paul added.

AS FOR WORKING TOGETHER (in their next film, "Hall of Mirrors," she plays a scarred up prostitute and Paul is an alcoholic disc jockey) they feel its advantage is "being in the same place at the same time."

"ON THE OTHER HAND, WE CAN'T FOOL EACH OTHER. There are no egos involved. And there should be acertain element of surprise. It's just very comfortable,' the wife added.

She would like to work opposite Albert Finney whose work she admired in "Charlie Bubbles.'

"I guess it was more important that I got my Oscar for 'Three Faces of Eve.' The time was right. And I felt it was the answer to all my dreams and wouldn't trade that moment for anything. Paul and I were only married four months then. This time I felt, I don't give a ---- what people think, I loved making 'Rachel, Rachel' and have lots of letters from people who thanked me for making it."

The couple talks freely about themselves, referring often to their six children (three are his by a former marriage) adding that their 16-year-old daughter is taking racing lessons from Paul's teacher.

"At 160 miles-per-hour you think the steering wheel will fly off. But at 180 the car really smoothes out," he said with a wink.

Newman does his own driving in "Winning," based on the Indianapolis Speedway Races and featuring clips of the 1966 accident. He says he drives by the "seat of his pants and only you and your laundryman know what it's all about." In real life he drives a Volkswagen with a large Porsche motor. His wife does not share his enthusiasm for speed.

Flood of Letters And Comments . . .

WHAT STARTED out as a review of Eldridge Cleaver's book of speeches and articles has become a flood of letters and comments.

What do the Negroes want one lady asks — What do they mean by total liberation and total freedom?

For answers, if answers exist, I suggest a book entitled, "I, Too, Am American" which is a volume of the International Library of Negro Life and History.

The last section of this book is entitled "I Have a Dream." Here are some answers from the pens of Malcolm X, Martin Luther King, The Black Power Conference, Whitney M. Young, Jr., Sen. Edward Brooke and many others.

TO THE QUESTION what do they mean by total freedom, a student leader from Howard University writes these chilling words.

"I think that there are three ways to solve the racial dilemma in this country: by the dissolution of the black people within the United States (going back to Africa); through separation; or by complete revolution — I think a revolution here — a bloody revolution — may be necessary."

He states his reasons thusly. "I feel that for too long black people have been trying to amalgamate themselves into a society that is completely foreign to them . . . The United States is capitalistic; to me that means vulturistic, it consumes other people to survive. White Americans are parasitic, and they have been preying on black people for 400 years as a means for their economic salvation. They are still doing it."

". . . but American society is going along at a faster pace than black people are. That is why black leaders are advocating anarchy . . . we will replace American Society."

A DIFFERENT set of answers is found in the words of Associate Justice Thurgood Marshall who is the leading Negro jurist in the country.

He charges that white Americans do not realize fully the depth of the problem of racial prejudice and discrimination in this country. He recognizes that in the past laws have been enforced to rob the Negro of his rights; now we must enforce the laws that have been passed to insure those rights.

DALY CITY PESTS — Dr. Merle Westmoreland "captures" swarm of pesty bees on San Diego Avenue in Daly City last week — the second trip to the neighborhood by the beekeeper, a former chiropractor, who is now a commercial fisherman and merchant seaman. Photographer Bob Burton's hobby is not beekeeping . . . so he put the bees on film, shielded from it all by the window glass of his car.

Bee Could be Friendly (?), But Watch the Yellowjacket

By WILL THOMAS

The man who says, "It's all right, they won't harm you," either has to know his bees extremely well, or not know them at all.

Better yet, let it go that Dr. Merle Westmoreland is a knowledgeable bee-man with some measure of courage greater than ours.

Westmoreland is a former Daly City chiropractor, who tired of sore-back complaints and became a commercial fisherman, merchant seaman and an every-now-and-then beekeeper.

In fact, he's the only beekeeper listed in the yellow pages of the San Francisco telephone directory and many folks, including the Daly City police department, have been keeping him busy lately.

Westmoreland's between fishing trips now — but busy with Daly City's bee swarms, the ones made up of bees crowded out of honey-bound natural hives.

He's been to the 300 block of San Diego Street twice this week already, and the latest to get rid of an eight-pound swarm (that's a lot of bees, he said), which is about the "average" swarm he must contend with.

It's the warm weather, he said after completing that chore, that's brought them out to a large extent.

"When the hot days come, the bees tend to swarm more," Westmoreland explained, noting also that "Daly City is full of bees."

In fact, he said he could "think of at least 10 houses" in the community where the bees are making "homes" of walls and chimneys.

Westmoreland, who has been a bee hobbyist (he charges in some instances to rid the areas of the pests) for about eight years, noted that he has caught almost 100 swarms in San Francisco, Daly City and Colma regions over the years.

The biggest swarm — most of them are a "little larger than a football," though some are "the size of a bushel basket" — he's "caught" was 13 to 14 pounds.

The latest swarm "went out to the country" on Saturday, early, because "you move bees at night," Westmoreland explained.

Westmoreland considers bees dangerous only if "they are injured while swarming." They will not sting otherwise, he contended.

But, Westmoreland inserted a warning:

"People shouldn't keep bees . . . they get dangerous for kids."

Hornets, though are worse.

These are very dangerous, and any that are found swarming in the yards or the streets should be eliminated. Deaths have been caused and many others have been hospitalized from hornet stings, Westmoreland emphasized.

The ones we see are mostly yellowjackets, whose round, grey paper nest opens at the bottom.

These should not be confused with bees, he said, "yellowjackets can be very deadly," and he urged persons who don't know how to properly handle them to call a beekeeper or an exterminator.

"Don't try to fight them yourself," he cautioned. "You're just asking for trouble."

The easiest and quickest way to get rid of bees is to dust thoroughly with DDT or Chlorodane, Westmorland said. The dust, particularly, doesn't disturb the bees, but will have them dead by night or early morning.

Never use aerosoles, he warned.

Westmoreland operates the commercial fishing boat, Kittiwake, out of San Francisco during summer months, running between here and Alaska.

In the winter he sails with the merchant marine.

Sometimes Good Names Abused

A RENTED ROOM in which a large number of telephones are installed and used in a concentrated sales pitch usually for charity is commonly referred to as a boiler-room. The phonemen or women use a standard prepared sales approach to people whose names are obtained from a telephone book or a tap list.

The professional fund raiser or boiler-room promoter usually bases his appeal on seemingly worthwhile neighborhood activities such as helping a club aid the teen-ager, underprivileged children, the elderly and the handicapped. What some clubs do not realize is that the promoter sometimes abuses the club's good name — and it is done in the sweet name of charity.

Two phonemen recently exposed the activities of the boiler-room phenomenon. Each man had been employed in different high pressure selling operations but both men were equally critical of the professional promoters they had worked for.

They characterized them as "con men" who were out to get all the money they could get with little regard as to how they got it. They charged the boiler-room promoters with duping the sponsoring groups and picking the pocket of any soft touch in the name of charity.

"THE MAN WHO gives us money is a sucker," one pitchman declared, "he does not know it but once he gives money to us, his name goes down on a list as to how much he gave and what particular pitch he fell for.'

Tap lists are a promoters stock in trade and are worth large sums of money. Some promoters have lists for dozens of cities which are sent back and forth for a percentage of the take in each fund-raising campaign.

Very little is left for the sponsoring group after the costs for other expenses such as rent, phones, light, heat, tickets and the costs of entertainment put on are deducted. The Bureau has on file a case in which approximately $25,000 was collected by the promoter.

Of this amount, only $3,500 was actually turned over to charity. The rest went for expenses.

A Real Smile

ART DAVIS, who recently won two of five Crab Cooking Olympic events — cioppino and mornay — and carried off the grand prize, was all smiles as guest of honor at an Exposition Fish Grotto gathering.

AND, SO WERE THE Sil Olivias and all the other old friends (many of them chefs themselves) grinning, as they came to pay tribute to the Exposition's Davis, who was proclaimed the "Olympics' master chef de cuisine."

Davis, quoted elsewhere as giving credit to the Dungeness, was modest, as we chatted, in lauding the essential roles of "all the people in this room," folks he's known a long time; he's been Exposition chef for 21 years and four months.

In fact, on "his" night, Davis made at least one trip to check on the progress of the very special (hmmm, good) menu, one that featured the kind of excellence you'd naturally expect in honor of The City's master chef de cuisine.

MRS. CAROLYN Schwartz, music teacher at Colma's Ben Franklin Elementary School, launched with the help of the student body a "Help Vietnamese Orphans Project" . . . needed: canned foodstuffs, toothpaste, toothbrushes, baby clothes, soap, etc.

GEORGE LAWRY, San Bruno Park School District superintendent, has been elected to membership in International Platform Association of Cleveland Heights, Ohio, a "club or trade association of those who appear before audiences in all media and of those interested in oratory and the power of spoken word." That's an honor, I think.

DEFINITION of "progressive education" from Westmoor Principal Richard Coltrell: "Everything that we didn't do when we were in school." And where'd he go to school?

EARLY TO RISE — Mrs. Neil Tremaine, wife of the Pacifica police chief, was startled, according to Post-Times reporter Don Grierson, when she greeted him over the phone last week . . . at 6:30 a.m.!

The police dispatcher made a flub on the board and connected Grierson with the special Tremaine number — instead of the FIRE department, yet. . . . .

AND WE'RE still trying to find out why that little tot out in front of our office on Park Plaza ran like the very dickens at the sight of our favorite police sergeant . . . the one that protects our favorite patrolman from gentle Frank LaPierre.

'See' Trip Affords Trail of Adventure

THE VAST SANTA LUCIA mountain range looms over the Pacifica Ocean for most of the way from Carmel as far south as Cambria below San Simeon. For a distance of almost 100 miles along this rugged coastline, there is only one escape road that penetrates the mountain and leads east towards Highway 101 and the Salinas Valley.

It is called Nacimiento Road and it is a trail of adventure that affords spectacular vistas of the Monterey coastline, a says the California State Automobile Association.

Nacimiento Road starts from the coast at the Kirk Creek bridge about four miles south of Lucia, where a U.S. Forest Service campground is loacated should you arrive at night and want to camp before taking the hill.

Although the road twists and winds and is often narrow in places, it has recently been scrapred and any driver can negotiate it with complete safety. Once you start up toward the 4,000 foot peak and stop to look back toward the Pacific, you'll be glad you started. You're often above the white mass of fog making it appear as though you're on some Mt. Olympus and overlooking your domain.

NACIMIENTO ROAD travels through the vast Los Padres National Forest. This country is unspoiled and unpopulated and does not have the great press of tourists. You can drive for miles without meeting or passing another car. The road suits the country just the way it is.

Hikers and campers will love this oak and pine covered area with many trails and campsites available. Best bet for a good map of the area is to write to: Forest Service, Kind City, Calif. 93930. Fire permits are required.

Once on the summit, the road becomes paved and starts its winding way down toward the valley. If you're observant, you can often see big flocks of band tailed pigeons, deer, montain quail and grouse.

The Nacimiento River flows down through this canyon the road follows and then swings south to flow into the Nacimiento Reservoir.

At the east end of the Los Padres National Forest Slickrock Creek invites all travelers to stop for a rest and to wade in its clear and cold waters.

A FEW MILES further along and you're in the Hunter Ligget Military Reservation and also a beautiful valley with high ridges and meadows criss-crossed by tank and jeep trails.
